

• CAROL ANN BAILEY, right, explains to Mary Prescott the functions of the Citizenship Education Project, sponsored this year by Miss Irene Barnwell. The present project of this class is to provide the school with hall monitors for the duration of the school year.

CEP monitor system works; silence reigns

• The days of wandering in the halls have become shadows of the past since the monitor system has been put into effect.

Under the sponsorship of Miss Irene Barnwell, the Citizenship Education Project class has solicited hall monitors for the school year. Seniors volunteering are Jan Wilkerson, Bobby King, June Turner, Bernie Lappin, Welela Brown and Pat Hobbs.

JUNIORS are Bettye Fleming, Judy Kinsey, Jessie Miller, Annette Goersch, Alice Anderson, Linda Lee Larkin, Barbara Sterling, Mary Alice Prescott, Jackie

Varney, Neil Collier, Judy Curtis, Sherry Jean Clayton, Bernice Davis, Harvey Hickman and Barbara Shireman.

Special recognition will be given these monitors later in the year, according to Miss Barnwell.

Language club announces committees, lays plans

• With a searching eye for a project such as the J. C. Williams fund they sponsored last year, the Classo-Romance Club has swung into activity. Officers of the club are Sylvia Nelson, president; Frances McShane, vice-president; Jean Jones, secretary; Ronald Brumley, treasurer. Co-sponsors are Miss Essie Berry, French teacher, and Miss Ellen Pride, Latin.

Standing committees appointed by the president at an initiation held at Carol Griffie's home September 23 are as follows:

Social: Ann Wilson, chairman, Kaye Ward, Lance King, Jane Ann Ward and Nikki Ward.

PTA boosts student union

by Carol Griffie

• As of now it is only a dream—but all things worthwhile usually begin that way, just as a dream.

Today's big dream is the idea of a student union that is informally being discussed by the executive board of the FSHS Parent Teachers Association. This board consists of the elected officers and committee chairmen of the group.

"IT MUST BE explicitly expressed," one board member said, "that this idea is just in a talking period. We only want to know both the students' and public's opinion."

They are well aware of the fact that for many years the teen-agers of Fort Smith have had no real place to go. It was with this knowledge that the subject was first brought up. It has been discussed at length at both meetings of the board.

THE THOUGHT was further inspired by an article in a national magazine about a successful project of this type in El Monte, California, which was backed completely by the students, even down to their actual labor. It is the only one completed in this manner in the nation.

As most of us know, Little Rock has a student union, which, according to all reports, has been well supported by the students. This project was backed by both the PTA and Blass and Company.

PRELIMINARY ideas for the student union, according to the board, include some temporary arrangement, possibly acquiring a government building or purchasing a house on grounds surrounding FSHS, upon which the school board holds an option. Such a building could be used until a permanent structure could be built.

Plans for the union include a snack bar and lounge where students can relax and study during free periods and where school dances can be held. It might also include offices for the school publications, the BRUIN and Grizzly, which if you will judge for yourself, desperately need added space.

"IT IS TRUE," said another board member, "that the school board does not have sufficient funds to sponsor such a project, but we are in hopes they could include it in future building plans."

"No matter which way we look at it," she added, "the senior high school has to expand, and it has to start somewhere."

"I AM VERY MUCH in favor of such a plan," R. Earl Farnsworth, principal, said.

Students, this is our opportunity! Where could we find a better step forward for senior high and the community? What better way to help combat juvenile delinquency? It has been in the minds of us for years—don't you think it's time for us students to help DO as well as DREAM?

Spanish club hears talk on pastor's mission south of the border

• "The thing that makes the standard of living so low in South America in comparison with ours is the fact that the great middle class of people is almost extinct," pointed out Dr. Fred G. Roebuck, pastor of the First Methodist Church, guest speaker at the regular Pan-American program meeting last Thursday. He continued by saying that "Mr. Average Person" of the U. S. made our economic system far superior to theirs.

Last summer Dr. Roebuck, with 16 other gospel ministers from the U. S., was privileged to make an extended tour through South America.

Key Club compiles directory, announces new members

• Know the telephone number of your favorite homework aid without having to call all the Smiths in the book? Of course you do—if you have a student directory compiled by the Key Club.

Work has already begun on this year's directory, an annual project the Key Club promotes. "We hope to have them out sometime next month," said John R. Thompson, sponsor.

NEW MEMBERS announced by president Bob Anderson include John Mott, Earnest Huckelbury, Bob Haynes, John Christy and Don Boatman, seniors; Joe Paul Alberty, Charles Ledbetter, Gary Wisener, Charles Beckman, Sherry Plunkett, John Paul North, Barry Hon and Joe Harper, juniors; Ernest Bartlett, Paul Jordan, Boley Powers and Tony Council, sophomores.

Other officers of the Key Club are Tom Cutting, vice-president; John Kolb, secretary; and Jimmy Gattis, treasurer.

The Key Club, organized in 1925, is an auxiliary of Kiwanis International.

TV programs feature clubs and classes

• "What is diversified occupations?" was the theme of the program presented by Jack Whitsitt and his DO classes Tuesday on Pat Williams' television show. For the second year FSHS clubs and classes are being featured on this program.

Advantages of the DO program to the student was given by Kay White and Benny Wallace. Advantages of the program to the employer and to the community were given by Mr. Whitsitt.

THE PROGRAM Tuesday will be given by Miss Nora Brown, featuring the homecoming queen and her maids, and October 26 by Mrs. Edna Grigsby and her English classes.

For students

Board proposes insurance plan

• New student benefits are being discussed by both the Parent-Teachers Association and the school board in proposal by the board for a student insurance plan.

Chris D. Corbin, Superintendent of Schools, has appointed a committee to investigate the need for a student insurance plan to be put into effect in the local schools. Under this plan, the parents of each student would pay $1.25 at the beginning of each school year.

"I AM DEFINITELY in favor of the plan because there have been a number of serious accidents during the last five years. Some of the students were not covered by insurance. If this plan had been in effect at that time it would have been a blessing," R. Earl Farnsworth, principal, said.

Sock and Buskin play announced; cast named

• Work on "Magnificent Obsession", this year's Sock and Buskin play, is now under way with the selection of the cast and production crew. The play is scheduled for November 11.

The lead role of Bob Merrick will be played by Earl McClendon, FSHS junior, in this story of a former medical student who barely escapes death in a freak accident. He indirectly causes the death of Dr. Wayne Hudson, played by Johnnie Ward.

Dr. Hudson is the father of Joyce Hudson, one of Bobby's good friends, played by Joan Holt. Julie Orr plays Dr. Hudson's young wife, Helen, who was Joyce's chum in college. Kay Farris is Nancy Ashford, Helen's good friend and companion. Monty Brent, Helen's cousin, is played by John Gossett.

OTHER CHARACTERS are "Dr. Malcolm Powell", Danny Stephens; "Marian Dawson", Patsy Price; "Jack Dawson", Bill Needham; "Mrs. Wickes", Katherine Brocchus, "Martha", Ann Wilson; "Perry", Bob Stoddard; "Friends of Bobby's", Bob Haynes, Ann Ellefson, J. D. Sagely, Linda Kaye Westmoreland, Nancy Gail Arnold and Buddy Evans.

Heading the production staff is Claudette Schock, student director. Danny Efurd is production manager.
