'Miss B's bones' rattle for physiology students

● Miss Kathryn Buchanan has her bones out again, and physiology students are industriously trying to memorize the names of all 206 of them.

This is the first year that physiology has been taught in FSHS. "Students going into medicine or nursing need a biology course on a senior level," said Miss Buchanan. "I didn't think any more than 10 would sign up

Some collect books, others stamps, but Henson likes shoes

● Mary Allyn Henson is one girl who doesn't worry about her shoes being out of style. She has one pair that is 75 years old.

This is only a part of a collection of 200 pairs of miniature shoes willed to her by her grandmother. Some of these are quite old.

"IT'S NOT easy to find a place to put them," says Mary. "I keep 50 pairs on tables, what-not stands, bookcases and shelves. The rest are in boxes."

Mary's hobby is bound up with her interest in home economics which she plans to study in college, afterwards taking up the occupation of home demonstration agent.

ALUMNI

● Justin Farnsworth, freshman at Louisiana State University, ranked eighth out of 1500 students taking a math test. He has also been placed in advanced chemistry.

ANNE COVEY has been put in the advanced English class at William Woods.

BILL DOOLEY and BILL KELTNER made high scores on a trigonometry test at the University of Arkansas.

CLIFTON VARNEY and BUDDY COLE are in the air force stationed in Japan.

RAMONA VARNEY has been elected secretary of the student body at John Brown University.

MARTHA RICE has been selected from the Spanish class at Monticello Junior College to make arrangements for the Spanish trip to Mexico since she was one who made the trip while in FSHS.

Riding horses proves junior's special hobby

● "Yes, it's been 12 long years since then," replied Cynthia Payne with a twinkle in her eye on having recalled her first Shetland pony, which she received at the ripe old age of four. "I was encouraged to ride at such an early age for riding was a favorite hobby of my parents. Now we're all confirmed horse enthusiasts."

Since then she has developed such a skill at this art that she, along with her father, was selected to carry the flags which precede the quadrille, a square dance for horses. Last summer this organization appeared in Burwell, Nebraska, where a champion rodeo was held. "This was one of the most exciting moments of my life," exclaimed Cynthia, "for all the performers were top-notch."

CYNTHIA estimates that her horse, saddle, and riding clothes are valued between three and four thousand dollars. Those who have seen Cynthia and Shorty, the horse, perform, however, agree that the money was invested in a most attractive pair.

"As recreation, riding can't be beat," declared Cynthia with an affirmative air. "Our horses are just like one of the family. Whither they go, we will go."

Departments elect chairmen for year

● ELECTED at recent meetings of the various departments in FSHS, department chairmen have been announced.

They are Herman Westfall, commercial; Henry Nicholson, mathematics; Clifton Grace, science; Miss Hazel Presson, English; Jerry Klinginsmith, industrial arts; and Miss Irene Barnwell, social science.

THESE HEADS of the departments serve as chairmen of their group meetings and attend to department business. Various projects are now under way in the departments. The English department is working on a booklist for guidance in reading in correlation with junior high school teachers.

Another department plans the preparation of handbooks for the teachers in their group.

The department head is elected annually by the teachers of that department.

Fair time is prize time for FSHS

● FSHS students copped many prizes in the three fairs staged during the months of September and October at the Arkansas-Oklahoma fair in Fort Smith, the county fair at Greenwood and the state fair in Little Rock.

Barbara Siegenthaler, junior, led the entrants, receiving many blues, one second and one third in all of the three shows. Included in the wins were three grand champion ribbons and a grand champion in the junior show of the Future Farmers of America. Other awards she received were the Orville Lee Siegenthaler Memorial Trophy, given each year in honor of her brother, The John Cella Award of $125 for the grand champion cow at Little Rock, and the J. C. Gerard Award of $150 for accumulating the largest amount of points at the state fair.

ANNE MATLOCK, junior received ribbons on "over 18 months" Hereford heifer, "raised by exhibitor" division heifer, second and fifth in junior yearling heifer, and junior champion Here-

Society hears Hicks on monthly program

● IN KEEPING with their name, the Athenian Literary Society plans to hold programs dealing with some phase of literature every fourth Tuesday of the month.

Presented on the first program of the year was Eddie Hicks, local writer. "For those of you who desire to be writers, you are at a dangerous time in your life, for you must make decisions for the future," he said.

"As for schools of journalism," he concluded, "the University of Missouri and Columbia University in New York are considered the best."
